A Teacher's Creed

I believe in children and youth as the hope of the future, for us and for all men everywhere. I will so live with young people day by day, that they will catch the spirit of universal brotherhood and make it a world-wide reality. Each day I will try to add richness and beauty to my own living in order to enrich the lives of others.

I believe in teaching that helps each student become his best self: physically, mentally, emotionally, socially, and spiritually. For such teaching I must keep myself physically fit, mentally alert and growing, emotionally poised and vibrant, socially aware of my responsibility to live understandingly, honorably, and generously with my fellow men, and spiritually attuned to uplifting and inspiring influences.

I believe in democracy as the most desirable way of life and will strive to help youth practice democracy in daily living at home, in school, and in all social contacts. I will emphasize these principles of democratic living: consideration for the rights, obligations, abilities, and property of others; respect for the dignity and worth of the individual; intelligent participation in planning and carrying on group activities; cooperative striving toward goals agreed upon; respect for worthy leadership and democratically established authority; responsibility for one's self and for the welfare of all mankind.

I believe in education as basic to a democratic society. Through education, democratic institutions and processes can be continuously improved and strengthened. I accept the awesome and compelling challenge of the world situation and pledge my teaching service to the builders of a better world.

Our President

DR. CHARLES C. WARD

The President's Message

Someone has said that the measure of education is what one has left after he has forgotten what he learned. With the passing of the years, the meaning of our college life finds even greater expression through our attitudes, our larger horizons, our search for truth and the devotion we give, in our service to children and all humanity. Our experiences, our knowledge gained here are but the means to help us achieve the great intangibles which alone measure the worth of our learning.

In its chosen theme, "The Teachers' Creed," the 1949 Cardinal envisions and explores the worth of these intangibles. It seeks the deeper meaning of our college purpose. In itself, a creed gives only the words to which meaning is attached through the inner life of each student. That these words have meaning in our college is evidenced in the pages of our yearbook. It is significant evidence of our maturity and the depth of our experiences. Our Cardinal is an expression of these intangible values of our college.

To the Junior Class, the editors and contributors of this our 1949 Cardinal, our debt is great in that they have expressed for us and to us, not alone the record of our college, but our hopes and aspirations in that greater realm of professional vision and hope for achievement. All of us are grateful for the inspiration of this our 1949 yearbook.

Junior Class History

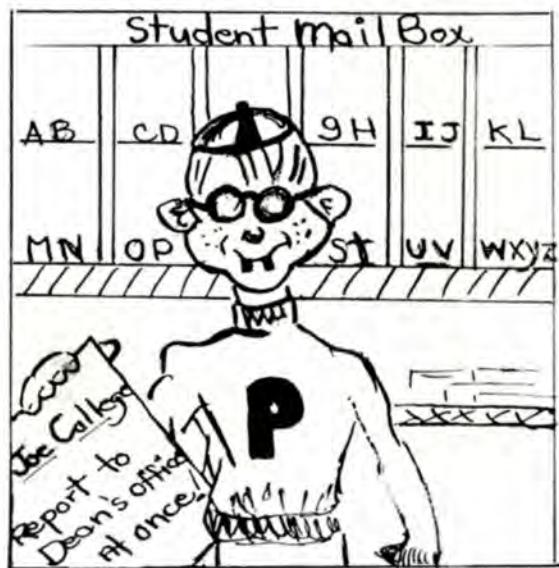

FRESHMAN YEAR

Remember Freshman Seminar . . . can you forget? There wasn't often anything on the program that would "stop the show" but there was usually plenty to "slow it up." It was normally a well balanced program—all terrible. Remember the way they were so strict about attendance . . . where did they think we would be—out on the highway chasing cars? However, I went every week and when it was over I was PERFECTLY SATISFIED.

JUNIOR YEAR

The golden opportunity of picking a beautiful spring day and nonchalantly strolling out of class while the instructor mumbles under his breath comes only once in a college lifetime—it's JUNIOR SNEAK DAY. A day without classes and instructors can be very educational. If only classes and instructors could be eliminated from colleges, education would be much more progressive.

SOPHOMORE YEAR

Now we're UPPERCLASSMEN! Our first chance to exercise the authority that goes with our new status in life is Freshman Court. Ah! Sweet revenge! It is much nicer on the other side of the bar of justice. This is the week when sentences longer and more interesting than any found in term papers are made up.

Small scale representative government with large scale duties—that's the House of Delegates. Its representatives are from each organization that holds a House Charter. Its activities vitally interest all students, for here their problems are presented, discussed and solutions are suggested. The House also acts as the policy forming body to aid in school administration.

The House sets up a student fund account. It sponsors the adoption of a European orphan. The White Gift, Tuberculosis Seal Drive and the March of Dimes continue the school's tradition of taking part in community affairs. The House sent representatives to several conferences to learn how other students handle these and other problems of student government.

Social Committee

L. Noxon, E. Collins, P. Duffy

Its members are few, its duties many. Chosen from the House of Delegates, the Social Committee proposes and directs many of the all-college social activities. The all-college picnic, the Hallowe'en party, sleigh rides and a variety of dances—all were on the agenda for this college year.

Its problems are many, its decisions are important, and serve the interests of all students. The Athletic Board acts as the clearing house for reactions of students and faculty to the intramural and intercollegiate athletic and physical education program. Four men and four women plan the budget and program. Sports are prominent at P. S. T. C., and the Athletic Board is effective in coordinating the activities.

Assemblies—to add to the educational opportunities of the college—are the responsibility of the Assembly Committee of the House of Delegates. Faculty and students select the three student concerts according to interest, variety, talent and budget. They also plan the bi-monthly assembly programs.

The committee is responsive to the interests of the student body as a whole. It considers the fields of education, history, drama, home economics, medicine, contemporary problems and other subjects of interest for a well-rounded program of entertainment and education. It offers opportunities for student participation in assemblies given by college organizations.

Kenneth Spencer, Evelyn MacGregor and Dr. Alpenfels offered some of the more memorable programs at the college this year.

President—ELIZABETH VAN GINHOVEN

Vice-President—MURIEL SULLIVAN

Secretary-Treasurer—PATRICIA BENSON

Delegate—BETTE BURNELL

Nineteen years of coordinating sorority activities—that's the record of "Interfrat." The purpose of this council is to maintain co-operation among the three sororities. In regulating rushing, bidding, pledging, initiation and the interfraternity dance, "Interfrat" has an active position in the social calendar of our college.

The Student Council acts in an advisory and executive capacity to the House of Delegates. Made up of the officers and chairmen of the standing committees, the Council aids the president in forming plans for the bi-monthly House meetings. Under its leadership and direction, the House provides opportunities for discussion and purposeful action on all matters presented to its members.

They're house presidents—elected by the girls in the many college residences. Checking the comings and goings of students—house rules—housing conditions—all are part of their business. The Board meets with Dean Lewis, its adviser. Together they try to make college life safer, more comfortable, and better organized for all women.

Senior Class

Four years have passed since September 1945. Four years of study, perseverance, cooperation, and diligence. Four years! It seems a long time, but actually time flew by and now they're our seniors, our graduating class of 1949.

Senior week—a tradition with special meaning to each individual. Class Day—moving up to the position of graduates; the Senior Banquet—a memorable occasion; the Senior Reception, where fond parents meet the faculty, other seniors and their parents. The Senior Ball is always a well-remembered occasion. And finally Commencement comes as the climax of Senior Week activities and the most important program of a college career. Diplomas and degrees are rewards for hard work and achievement. And the seniors all say, "It's been worth it."

June rounds out another year which has seen the enthusiastic class of '51 help acclimate the new freshmen to life at P. S. T. C. Freshmen rules, caps and court are a tradition and a must in the opinion of the sophomores.

In spite of the weatherman, the freshman-sophomore picnic at Twin Valleys was again a success. The view from the ledge, the climb to the lean-to, and the softball games were just as inviting as the hot dogs and "good" coffee.

The Sophomore Soiree was the high light this year. It's an annual event, but this year the sophs outdid themselves in making it a gala affair.

The sophs displayed their confidence in Jack Sanborn's ability by again electing him to lead their class. Marvin Stratton as treasurer and Lillian Noxon as delegate must have ably earned class favor as freshmen, because each was returned to his respective post as a sophomore.

Their journey through P. S. T. C. has now reached the halfway mark. Pleasure and profit are surely ahead for this lively group in its next two years.

September 1948 brought the largest group of students ever registered at P. S. T. C. It was a new situation with many questions to be answered. The Sophomores understood this and took the class under their wings. The Freshman-Sophomore party, the tug-of-war, the presence of those red and white caps, all signified that the freshmen were becoming a part of the school and forming new friends.

Dean Lewis in the weekly seminars brought up problems and situations that might affect the freshmen. Ten weeks later, class elections were held and Bud Blair became the capable president.

In March, the Saint Patrick's Day dance—their first big activity—was a big success.

Three years lie ahead of them. May they put the most into college—to get the most out of it.

This has been an active year for the Home Economics Club. A welcoming tea for new freshmen members started the year enjoyably. The club held a special meeting with an exchange student from Czechoslovakia.

Tradition is important to the Home Economics Club, so again this year the club packed Christmas gifts for European children. It also sponsored the All-College Christmas Tea.

Guest speakers and movies helped to complete the program of meetings. Aware of its responsibilities on campus, the club anticipates a full use of its professional services for home economics students.

Student Nurse-Teachers Club

Capable leaders, interested adviser and active members—all contributed to make the Student Nurse-Teachers Club's third year a big success. Its purpose is to foster unity among the various classes of P. S. T. C.'s School of Nursing.

After four years the girls will be graduated as registered nurses with Bachelor of Science degrees. They may then officiate in any New York State school as nurse-teachers.

Remembering the girls who are off-campus, club members mail a regular newsletter which is read from beginning to end by the receiver. Problem solving, information on current topics, discussions and a variety of recreation contribute to the success of the club.

The Elementary Club experienced an active and profitable year. The joining together of the Early Childhood Division and the Elementary Club proved to be a wise step. As a result of this combination, there have been better programs, more interesting discussions, larger attendance at meetings and social events and greater enthusiasm among the members.

Five students were delegated to attend the Eastern States Association Conference in New York City. Cathy Harkins and Al Light took leading parts in various panel discussions. The Elementary Club also sent five delegates to the joint conference of the Association for Nursery Education and the Association for Childhood Education.

The Elementary Club students are members of the New York State Teachers' Association and the New York Association for Childhood Education.

The Glee Club was organized to provide an opportunity for those who like to sing. To belong, special talents are not necessary—the only requirement is the enjoyment of music.

In addition to the chance of getting together to sing for their own enjoyment, the members have provided musical programs for others. During Christmas week, they participated in the Nativity Pageant and in the Vesper Sing, where they sang their traditional version of "White Christmas."

The Glee Club also took part in the spring concert sponsored by the music department and in the assembly program during music week in May. Participation in the baccalaureate service was the final activity of the Glee Club this year.

The band, just completing its second year, was organized to provide an opportunity for music lovers to get together and play under the direction of Mr. Caswell.

This year they had several opportunities to perform for others—they took part in the traditional Christmas program and gave an evening concert during the spring. During music week in May, they participated in the annual assembly program presented by the music department and they also helped with the baccalaureate service during commencement week. The band also played for the crowning of the junior king and queen and for class day exercises.

Chorus

The reorganization of the chorus in the fall presented campus songsters with another opportunity for singing together. Under the direction of Mr. Iverson, they sang many types of music, including sacred, popular, Negro, and folk music. They participated in several activities during the year giving other music lovers the chance to enjoy hearing music. They were an important part of the Vesper Sing of the Christmas week program and they assisted the music department at the evening concert and the annual assembly program during music week in May. In addition, they were part of the program for the baccalaureate service in June. During the year, the most important activity of the chorus was to provide an opportunity for its members to sing together for their own enjoyment.

Male Quartet

The male quartet was organized this year to provide another opportunity for the musicians of P. S. T. C. to join together. They made their first appearance when they sang for the Northeastern Zone meeting in the fall. The quartet began with Bruce Bromley, first tenor; Peter Young, second tenor; Dennis Nolan, baritone; and Paul Gordon, bass, with Floyd Stark, accompanist.

Overdue write-ups, confused photography schedules, an initiation complex, and, always, deadlines to meet. And then from all the turmoil and disorder emerges a book—the 1949 CARDINAL.

Most people know something of the work of our CARDINAL Staff. We have had no difficulty in recording the people and places at P. S. T. C., but we have attempted to do much more. We have sought to capture the spirit that gives P. S. T. C. a place in our hearts and memories, and to make the CARDINAL a lasting symbol of our college days. If we have accomplished this and met your expectations, then our work has been worth while.

We sincerely appreciate the assistance and cooperation of Dr. Noyes, business adviser; Dr. Everest, literary adviser; and Mr. Holbritter, assistant photographer. A debt of gratitude should also be paid to the entire junior class who solicited ads and supported all our efforts.

Finally, we hope you enjoy reading it as much as we have enjoyed editing it.

By defeating New Paltz State in their last two games this year, the 1948-49 CARDINAL basketball team tied the previous years "best" record in the school's history by notching 11 wins against 5 setbacks.

Features of the season were the two Rochester games, which were both decided in the last twenty seconds of play. Co-captains, Sal Fedele and Joe Lavorando dominated the play in the backcourt, while the forecourt positions were shared by Wally Stachowicz, Jack Nephew and Mike Storonsky. At the center slot, Bob Garrow, the season's high scorer, was outstanding.

Coach James' Redbirds were strictly offensive-minded as compared to last year's defensive club. They rolled up 892 points against their opponents for a 55.6 average, while limiting their foes to 726 points for an average of 45.5. They also defeated each team they played at least once.

Junior Varsity Basketball

"Doc" Wiley's charges racked up nine wins against five setbacks for a very successful season. Led by Captain Francis Paro, the Junior Varsity met local town teams and also collegiate competition in the Skidmore Extension and Dawson games. They downed all the Junior Varsity college teams which they opposed.

Six-foot, three-inch LaDuke was the season's high scorer, while the playmaking was dominated by Jim Damianos and Joe Fedele who also doubled in a varsity role.

The three full teams which comprised the "Jay-vee" squad were the largest ever and their record was also the best in the school's history.

The coming of spring meant baseball to the P. S. T. C. Redbirds. "Doc" Wiley's team had a difficult schedule with such teams as Albany State, Potsdam State, Canton Aggies and Paul Smiths.

The Redbirds were paced by last year's veterans who included in the infield, Francis Paro, this year's captain, at the keystone sack and Mike Storonsky, last year's leading hitter, at first base. In the outfield were Sal Fedele and Jim Brannigan. These experienced players plus the newcomers helped to make the team that represented the pedagogues on the diamond.

"Jayvees" lose again, Doc ???

Cheer for the team !

With the basketball season, a new era dawned in girls' sports. This year in addition to the usual fun of class competition and the climactic Cardinal-White game, there has been held the first Sports Day. A team of St. Lawrence stars came a-visiting and a good time was had by all who attended the activities of the day. The Cardinal-White game retained its usual excitement and good attendance and wound up the basketball activities for another year.

Many of us look forward during the entire year to the volleyball season. Fun and excitement last for a couple of months when class teams "volley" for the position of the best team of the year. With four games going at once each Thursday and Friday, the gym is a beehive of activity, noise, and flying balls. At last comes the day of the Red and White game, competition between two teams made up of the stars of the school. This year's game was won by the Red team under Captain Lorraine Latray over Carol Northrop's White team by a score of 36-26.

Men's Volleyball

Six teams composed this year's volleyball league at P. S. T. C. The class of the field proved to be the faculty "Purple," which scored wins in twelve of its fifteen contests. This gave the instructors a two-game edge over John Stachnick's "Brownies."

The faculty, paced by Dr. Everest's serves, and the spiking of Kullman, Shemet and Chapline gave "Doc" Wiley's aggregation the edge which enabled them to take the league.

Third place honors went to John Junior's "Red" team, while the remaining squads were separated by one game each.

Friendliness—the keynote of the A.D.'s. Blended with leadership, knowledge and cooperation, it has helped in every way to make the Alpha Deltas a happy organization.

September brought the A.D.'s together for another year of fun and companionship. They began activities for the year with the All-College Sherbet Hour. Alpha Deltas, Agos, and Crios joined hands and hearts and made the Freshman Party a success.

The Hobo Rushee Party with its tricks, laughter and songs was soon followed by the annual interfraternity dance. The pledge banquet, "Hell Week," and informal initiation saw many new A.D.'s joining their ranks. Finally the merriest and saddest occasion of the year, the Senior Farewell Banquet, closed the calendar of a busy organization.

"A Golden Opportunity"—title of the Ago's memorable assembly production, deftly suggests the sentiment each Ago possesses for P. S. T. C. and for her sorority. The Agos had an eventful year which got off to a quisk start with the freshman get-acquainted party.

The rush party on the Agonian Plantation with its "mint juleps," darkies and Southern belles was followed by the traditional interfraternity dance. In the spring came the pledge banquet and a record number of new Agos. Formal initiation, winning of the symbolic keys, friends and fellowship—all were a part of the year.

The Senior Farewell Banquet was the farewell to our graduating sisters. Next year offers happiness and activity for Alpha Kappa Phi.

"We're a bunch of Clios"

This year will be long remembered by each and every Clio. The All-College Tea started the ball rolling and was quickly followed by an enjoyable Freshman Party. The Fiesta—with its gaiety and brilliance—gave the rushees fun and surprises. The interfraternity dance, pledge banquet, "Hell Week," and formal initiation revealed to our new Clioian sisters the richness and depth of their new sorority.

Convocation—the highlight of the year. We met our Clio sisters from all over the state. We enjoyed being host to such an outstanding group which contributed its ideas and traditions toward an inspiring session.

In June—the Farewell Banquet—its tears, joys and partings always to be remembered.

Organized last year, and going into full swing this year, the Men's Club has become a prominent part in the activities at P. S. T. C.

The outing at Dick Mischler's camp on Auger Lake was a memorable event for all who attended and took part in the activities.

An Athletic Council was formed to supervise all men's athletics. It consisted of Mike Storonsky, chairman; John Pattist, Tom Guerriero and Joe Fazio. Their biggest achievement is the men's bowling league.

The fall winner of the league was team C, captained by Gordon Powell and composed of Ray Barrett, Mike Storonsky, Pete Young, and Jerry Douglas. Wally Stachowicz took honors with his high average of 179.

The Men's Club dance was a high light of Christmas week. It was a big success and the club plans to hold it annually. Its bi-monthly meetings feature movies, speakers, cards, and inevitably, eats.

Silver pins for one year's membership and gold pins for three are proudly worn by the members of the Footlights Club. The initiation into this group consists of acting in a short play directed by an experienced member.

This year the club is large, boasts a number of men and a lot of talent. "Penny Wise" was the three act play chosen as the major production of the year.

The Footlighters are never idle. They write, act, and direct so that every meeting is novel and interesting. In addition, they supervise the production of the Christmas Pageant and this year, entertained the Harlequin Club from Champlain College at one of their meetings.

With Mr. Hartman as their very competent leader, the Footlighters are always ready when the "curtain goes up."

Adviser—MR. BRAGDON

Meeting informally in the cafeteria, the International Relations Group discusses national and foreign affairs. With meetings open to everyone, the I. R. G. endeavors to make the student body globe-conscious. News bulletins posted in the north corridor, and documented films are part of the activities of this group, which exchanges information and tries to interpret contemporary problems.

“Star Gazing” on top of Whiteface Mountain was the main adventure of their year—five a.m. to look at a star is not too early for this group. The astronomers also enjoyed the informal discussions—well-known speakers—and telescope observations.

Second Row: M. Tompkins, R. Nellegar, A. Bucci, G. Boons, J. McCardle, B. Freed, W. Bulivant, J. Cahn, E. Brown
Front Row: N. Cincotta, M. Lorch C. Bartley, W. Bierce, J. Corser, J. Hunt

Supper Club

Foreign meals—the highlight of the monthly meeting of the Supper Club. Not only is foreign food highlighted—but the members appear in appropriate costume as well.

Food—with all the trimmings—from Greek Mousaka to Russian Sneghka. You name it—they will concoct it.

Red Cross

The Red Cross Club is dedicated to an important cause both on the campus and in the community. Students well remembr its display in the front lobby. Campaigns for contributions were conducted both in the lab school and in the college.

Junior Class Diary

Sept.

- 13 Registration . . . look at that crowd . . . maybe that isn't a new horse barn in the rear of the college . . . it may be temporary classrooms.
- 14 Classes begin . . . hope I catch something this year—pursuing this course.
- 21 Don't the Sophs ever get tired of letting the Frosh pull them through the pond?
- 24 Sophs hold court and sentence Frosh Hell Week offenders . . . remember, we got even that way, too.
- 28 That instructor was picking on me today in class . . . it isn't right to ask me a question, answer it for me and then tell me I'm wrong.
- 30 Three-day recess. . . Zone Teachers' meeting. . . I'm for more and longer doings such as these.

Oct.

- 7 Faculty meeting at Placid . . . students take over (or is it make over) all classes.
- 12 Columbus Day . . . this year we don't get even PSTC's only legal holiday off.
- 18 Glad that week-end is over . . . thank goodness whoever has charge of such things put a school week in between every two week-ends.
- 27 Next year as a Senior will be nice . . . nothing to do but drink cafeteria coffee or parade the college corridors.
- 30 Footlighters and Shakespeare class trip to Montreal . . . reports have it that some even saw "Hamlet" . . . there are always one or two in every crowd.

Nov.

- 15 "T" rooms didn't open again today as scheduled . . . however, hardly a week goes by but that they fail to open.
- 17 "A Golden Opportunity" with Flossie Pye offered by Agos . . . hmm!
- 22 Rushing season opens . . . more rushing will start in two days when the Thanksgiving vacation begins . . . that cafeteria chow is O. K. but that's turkey tuh hum.
- 29 Vacation ends . . . I'd cut a couple classes this morning but I need the sleep.

Dec.

- 4 Annual interfrat semi-formal . . . now I know why I came to college . . . I knew it wasn't for knowledge.

Junior Class Diary

- 12 Vesper Sing purty.
- 14 Home Ec. Club tea and don't think it isn't more important than the curriculum.
- 17 Candlelight Service a real show.
- 18 Christmas vacation hurry, let's get the show on the road home.

1949

Jan.

- 3 Vacation ends also, "T" rooms fail to open again today as scheduled—as usual.
- 22 Mid-year exams and now don't I wish I had studied some last semester instead of just last week.
- 26 What an exam that was today and what did that student across the aisle mean by covering his paper and saying, "I don't want to influence you one way or another"?
- 27 No Ozzie Smith around to spark up exam rooms this year miss him.
- 29 They're over nothing can help now but prayer.
- 31 Registration for the second semester does every member of the staff have a table at which to collect money?

Feb.

- 1 Back to classes again the week's most often repeated statement: "It's going to be different this semester."
- 2 The "T" rooms opened after all only they are "A" rooms for students only a respectable horse wouldn't sit in one.
- 9 Grade cards are out today how is it that I can make the "mid-semester" dean's list but never get on it at the end of the semester?
- 15 Another physical today I should complain tho'—it's about the only exam I can pass.
- 18 Dr. Alpenfel—guest speaker today. She told us where we came from. Personally, I'd rather know where we're going.
- 26 Sorority banquets. Now I'm glad I came back for the second semester.

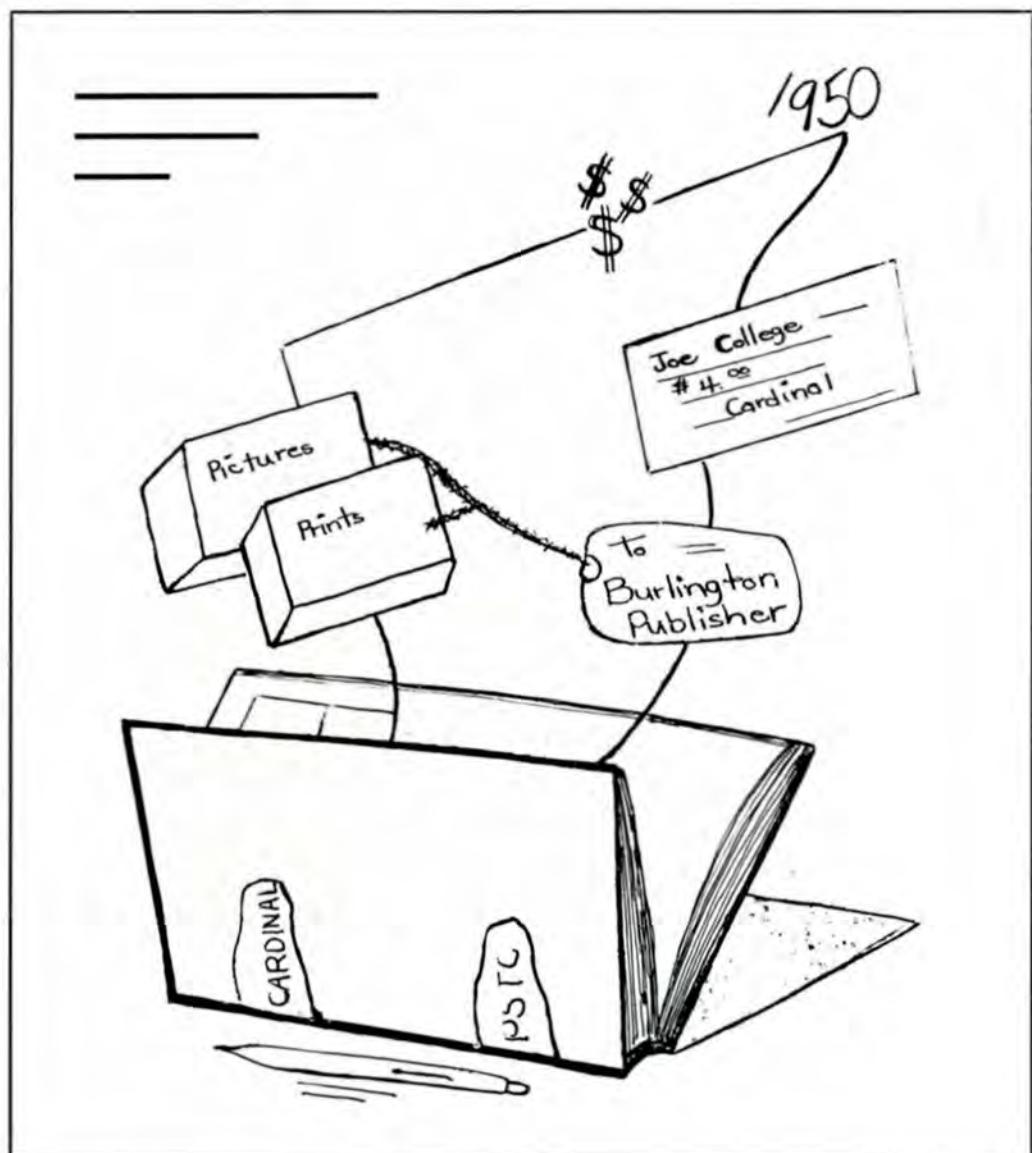

Mar.

- 1 Has everyone gone completely crazy, or is it just sorority initiation week?
- 4 Basketball team winds up the season with eleven wins against four losses another good year for the "Redbirds."

CARDINAL goes to press back in June.

Now we must make the last drawing, take the last picture, and write the last few lines for the '49 CARDINAL. For several months the staff has gathered much material, sifted many ideas, and labored long on organization in an effort to make the yearbook a permanent record of the things we all valued most in 1949. Putting the book together has not been an unpleasant task. Working with co-operative associates on a worth while project never is.

The end has come. The proofs must be sent to the printer. When your finished copy returns we hope you like it. If not, we have failed to do for you all that we desired. If you like it, remember, as we always will, that the CARDINAL had the finest of subject matter—the students of P. S. T. C.

- - - I accept the awesome and compelling challenge of the world situation and pledge my teaching service to the builders of a better world.
